BIOGRAPHY OF HWANG HSING

HWANG HSING was born in 1875 in Hunan Province, near its capital. This province is situated in the central portion of China, south of the Yangtse River. From its beautiful hillsides have come some of China's most celebrated generals and statesmen, among whom Hwang Hsing takes second place to none. He is endowed in the amplest measure with those sterling qualities which characterized his ancestors. During youth he was deeply impressed by Western ideas. Modern learning has ever had an advocate in him and it has had a warm place in his heart. He studied and graduated with honors from that famous college, The Leung Hu Shih Yuen, established under the auspices of Viceroy Chang Chih-tung, who spared nothing to equip this great State College of the two Hu Provinces with the amplest facilities for the study of European and American arts and sciences. In his school days he was delighted with the broad and liberal policies of the West, as contrasted with Oriental lethargy and stagnation. At college the desire seized him to reform his country, and henceforth to consecrate himself to the elevation of his people. The scepter of the Empire of China had fallen to the Manchus, who, in accordance with their despotic policy, were anxious to keep the Chinese, the Han subjects, in ignorance and subjection; they resorted to every conceivable pretext to hold them in the bonds of lethargy. Confucian conservatism was an enforced study, while the liberal and progressive doctrines of Western people were discountenanced. Christians and educated men of America and Europe were looked upon with suspicion, fearing that their just and broad principles of human equity and justice might leaven the loaf, and induce a rebellion against their narrow and enervating policy. The Manchus favored in their heart of hearts every manifestation of anti-foreign movement among the people, and allowed such outrages to humanity as brought scores of years of burden and woe to the Chinese, as witness the Boxer outbreak. Corruption was widespread and real talent kept down on every hand through the jealousy of their rulers, and these deplorable conditions were being augmented as each year rolled by, so that the people were writhing under the malignant and destructive policy of their rulers. All these facts made an indelible impression on the mind of the youthful patriot and future liberator of his people. He had strong convictions that the time had passed for China to again bar the door to foreign enterprise and intercourse, and that for his country to relapse supinely into seclusion would bring final disaster. Thus we see that the enlightened aims and lofty ambitions of Hwang Hsing were founded upon solid ground. But what character, spirit and enterprise do we find in him to assure of the final triumph?

Nothing speaks more forcibly than deeds. Let us give a short and concise résumé of his enterprises and endeavors ere venturing to prophesy the heights which Hwang Hsing may finally reach.

Upon his graduation from the State College he was imbued with an intense enthusiasm to reform his country; and to carry out the mighty reforms he proposed, he appreciated the fact that he must have the co-operation of many compatriots, who would lend the necessary assistance. But to his disappointment he found lamentably few of his fellow men who were willing to exert themselves to further the cause that was burning in his breast.

Such an obstacle would have depressed a less man than Hwang Hsing. Whole-souled he plunged into the task of infusing into his associates the enthusiasm which in him had no bounds. He went to Japan to meet the thousands of Chinese students who were studying there. In order to come into closer touch with the students he matriculated at the Tokio University. He lost no chance to associate with every person of worth and promise. After graduating from the University he returned to Hunan and established the Ming Yuk and the King Ching Schools, over which he personally presided. The names given to these schools are characteristically Chinese and suggestive, the first meaning “Illustrious Virtue,” and the second “Reformation.” In a remarkably short time he had gathered about him sufficient adherents to excite the jealous and vigilant eye of the Government. Henceforth, he was persecuted and chased from place to place. To a man less courageous such persecution would have been an insuperable barrier, but to him it was only an incentive to more active and drastic measures.

To him the pointing finger of Providence was plain. The writing on the wall of fate clearly proclaimed that Despotism must perish and Democracy win the day in China. Hwang Hsing was henceforth a full-fledged Revolutionist, boldly advocating Republicanism for China. He worked steadfastly to increase the number of adherents from the gentry and military classes of Hunan, thus courting the order for his arrest by the Government. In 1906 he had to flee for his life to Shanghai. In Shanghai he was arrested, but upon the assumption of a fictitious name he was liberated and escaped to Japan. Thrown again into the field of his former labors, we find him giving full vent to his organizing genius.

Thus far he had had to face a nation of four hundred millions in the educational field, but now he had to cope with the armed forces of the Chinese Empire. To accomplish the reformation and the elevation of his people necessitated the sweeping away of the system that had so long obstructed and undermined the industrial and intellectual growth of the nation. He realized that extensive co-operation was indispensable to the herculean task he had set himself to perform. The ideal ever before him was the most civilized revolution possible. He desired to avoid all unnecessary carnage and plunder. In order to accomplish the overthrow of the Manchus by a comparatively bloodless revolution he organized, first, the Tung Ming Hui or the “Association of Compatriots”; second, he established and edited a paper named The Min Pau, or The Nationalist, for the purpose of leading the people to a right appreciation of their duties as citizens and in order to be able to attack the corruption and evils of the Manchu régime. Third, he organized systematic methods of working and co-operating with the military classes in China, never failing to urge them to show to the world that China could conduct a thoroughly civilized Revolution, through which foreign residents and non-combatants were held sacred and inviolable. And, in anticipation of the personal part that he must play in the great drama, he applied himself with assiduous zeal to the study of military tactics under military officers in Japan. He made a special study of the manufacture of explosives and implements of war, and also organized the Chun-Sze Pin Tsau Pu, or "The Deliberating Council of Military Affairs," which embraced among its members most of the military talent of "Young China."

About this time Dr. Sun Yat-sen arrived in Japan from Europe. Hwang Hsing found him very congenial and in hearty sympathy with his plans. With characteristic Chinese courtesy, Hwang Hsing urged Sun Yat-sen to become the President of their Association, while he himself acted as its Vice-President. Very soon the Association could count among its members nearly all the University and College Chinese graduates of Europe, America and Japan. Sympathy for the movement spread far and wide, not only within the confines of China, but among Chinese of every clime. Henceforth, every editor and every instructor of importance was lined up with Hwang Hsing and his organization, and began to preach and reiterate the need for Change, Reform and Progress, if their Fatherland was to be saved. The Manchu Dynasty was shaken to the very Throne; but instead of turning from the errors of its way and carrying out the Reforms that the people demanded, the Government set for its task the ruthless and total annihilation of the Reformers. It is indeed deplorable that so many of the brightest minds paid the penalty of their patriotic zeal by forfeiting their heads and to-day fill a patriot's grave. Thus far the Reformers had relied upon the pen as their weapon, while the Government replied with whetted swords and whizzing bullets. But the time of reckoning was fast approaching!

To whom belongs the honor of holding and swaying the multitude? By whose determination and power have the vast millions of China chiefly been prepared for the great transforming scene that the world has just witnessed? Of one man it can be said (as Gladstone said of Washington) that if among all the pedestals supplied by the recent history of the Chinese Revolution for character of extraordinary ability, elevation of purpose, patriotism and untiring effort, one is higher than all the rest, it is the pedestal raised to the honor of Hwang Hsing. An examination of this man's history helps greatly to answer those perplexing questions about the future of the new-born Republic, for in him the destiny of China is wrapped up.

People of the West may have heard of Hwang Hsing as the defeated General of Nanking who led "The Punitive Expedition Against Yuan Shi-kai," but the world has not heard that he was the towering figure, the life and main-spring of the movement that dethroned the Manchu Emperor and uprooted that despotic rule from the Flowery Kingdom. The retreat of Hwang Hsing from Nanking was as "Xenophon's retreat of ten thousand, outshining the conquest of Alexander;" as the retreat of Sir John Moore to Corunna as compared with the victories of Wellington; certainly far more glorious was it than the wanton devastation and the scourging of his Fatherland by Yuan Shi-kai. —From "A Revelation of the Chinese Revolution," by JOHN J. MULLOWNEY.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. Any bid which is merely a nominal or fractional advance may be rejected by the auctioneer, if, in his judgment, such bid would be likely to affect the sale injuriously.

2. The highest bidder shall be the buyer, and if any dispute arise between two or more bidders, the auctioneer shall either decide the same or put up for re-sale the lot so in dispute.

3. Payment shall be made of all or such part of the purchase money as may be required, and the names and addresses of the purchasers shall be given immediately on the sale of every lot, in default of which the lot so purchased shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

Payment of that part of the purchase money not made at the time of sale shall be made within ten days thereafter, in default of which the undersigned may either continue to hold the lots at the risk of the purchaser and take such action as may be necessary for the enforcement of the sale, or may at public or private sale, and without other than this notice, re-sell the lots for the benefit of such purchaser, and the deficiency (if any) arising from such re-sale shall be a charge against such purchaser.

4. Delivery of any purchase will be made only upon payment of the total amount due for all purchases at the sale.

Deliveries will be made on sales days between the hours of 9 A. M. and 1 P. M., and on other days—except holidays—between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M.

Delivery of any purchase will be made only at the American Art Galleries, or other place of sale, as the case may be, and only on presenting the bill of purchase.

Delivery may be made, at the discretion of the Association, of any purchase during the session of the sale at which it was sold.

5. Shipping, boxing or wrapping of purchases is a business in which the Association is in no wise engaged, and will not be performed by the Association for purchasers. The Association will, however, afford to purchasers every facility for employing at current and reasonable rates carriers and packers; doing so, however, without any assumption of responsibility on its part for the acts and charges of the parties engaged for such service.

6. Storage of any purchase shall be at the sole risk of the purchaser. Title passes upon the fall of the auctioneer's hammer, and thereafter, while the Association will exercise due caution in caring for and delivering such purchase, it will not hold itself responsible if such purchase be lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed.

Storage charges will be made upon all purchases not removed within ten days from the date of the sale thereof.

7. Guarantee is not made either by the owner or the Association of the correctness of the description, genuineness or authenticity of any lot, and no sale will be set aside on account of any incorrectness, error of cataloguing, or any imperfection not noted. Every lot is on public exhibition one or more days prior to its sale, after which it is sold "as is" and without recourse.

The Association exercises great care to catalogue every lot correctly, and will give consideration to the opinion of any trustworthy expert to the effect that any lot has been incorrectly catalogued, and, in its judgment, may either sell the lot as catalogued or make mention of the opinion of such expert, who thereby would become responsible for such damage as might result were his opinion without proper foundation.

ANCIENT CHINESE PAINTINGS

469—LANDSCAPE, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD SCENES

Prof. Dr. G. Simkowitz

2250

A rare collection in a portfolio painted by the renowned artist Tsiu Yao Chii of the Yuan Dynasty, who was a contemporary of Chiao Tze Ugong. His art is of a rare and polished type and the colors he used was a secret that has since been lost. Attention is directed to the freshness and brilliancy of the colors, notwithstanding the centuries through which they have passed. In grace and artistic taste this artist is unsurpassed, and in the whole ten beautiful paintings, the most commonplace scenes are invested with a beauty and enchantment that is rare to find.

Size, 14 inches by 14½ inches.

Second Afternoon

470—LOHAN PORTFOLIO

Prof. V. G. Simkhovitch

180

A portfolio of the eighteen Buddhistic Worthies by a noted artist of the Yuan Dynasty. It is executed in a pale black, giving a shadowy appearance to the figures.

471—HAND SCROLL: HORSES AT THEIR FEEDING TROUGHS

Prof. V. G. Simkhovitch

450

Painted on silk by Chiao Tze Ugong, the famous artist of the Sung Period. The scroll contains six horses feeding, and their attendants. This artist made a specialty of painting horses, and as a writer and painter he enjoys the widest renown.

CHIAO TZE UGONG may be called "The Artist of the Sung Dynasty," and his fame in art and letters is known throughout the land. His scenic pictures of flowers and birds were executed with greatest facility and ease, but he excels and is noted for his paintings of horses.

472—HAND SCROLL: LANDSCAPE ALONG THE YANGTSE

300

Under the title of "Ten Thousand li along the Yangtse," Wang Kung Mong, a noted artist of the Yuan Period, has in this masterpiece depicted a stretch of country on the bank of the Yangtse beginning from the mountain fastness of Szechuan until it reaches the plains of Hupch. It is an interesting example, as besides the boldness and artistic conception of the painting, it is a very old and most authentic masterpiece of this great artist, who was the predecessor of a school of Chinese art which produced many noted artists in later times.

Length, 24 feet; width, 13½ inches.

Second Afternoon

473—HAND SCROLL: HISTORICAL FEMALE PERSONAGES

125" — Painted on silk by a great master of the Ming Dynasty, named Tsan Ying (Shik Chuk), who was famed for his portraiture, and in that specialty he excelled other renowned masters of the past.

This scroll has special interest, in that it presents some scores of women whose merit in literature, science, art and in almost every other avenue open to man, has been duly recognized in Chinese history. As these female personages existed centuries ago, it shows that China then gave due recognition to the rights of womankind. Another item of note is that the personages portrayed are wearing costumes worn in the past by Chinese women, and although dimmed by the mist of thousands of years, their grace and perfection of design offer valuable suggestions to the women of the present time.

474—HANGING SCROLL: AUTUMN SCENERY

70" — Painted on silk by Lan Ying. This painting depicts mountains in bold relief in the background, through a ravine of which flows a stream, with trees, foliage and villas on its banks.

Length, 8 feet; width, 25½ inches.

LAN YING, a great artist of the Ming Dynasty, was noted for his bold departure from the pre-existing schools of Chinese art. He was the first to admire European art, and he combined the artistic conceptions from abroad with his naturally bold and antique style, forming a distinct school of his own which awakened much criticism from his contemporaries.

475—HANGING SCROLL

80" — Painted on silk by Lan Ying, with mountains in bold relief in background, with villas on the bank of a stream below.

Length, 8 feet; width, 25½ inches.

Second Afternoon

E. Groe

475A—HANGING SCROLL: AUTUMN SCENERY

9<sup>00</sup>—Painted on silk by Lan Ying. This great artist won his renown by being the first Chinese artist who appreciated foreign art from Europe, and endeavored to combine their excellencies with Chinese art. In this and the following painting one can see the evident infusion of European influence which gives a most happy combination.

This painting depicts mountains in the background with its cascades, with a villa, trees and a rustic bridge below.

Length, 8 feet; width, 25½ inches.

475B—HANGING SCROLL

J. P. Ritter

11<sup>00</sup>—Painted on silk by Lan Ying. With mountains in bold relief in the background with cascades and trees, and below is a beautifully executed rural scene with its deciduous trees clothed in autumn leaves.

Length, 8 feet; width, 25½ inches.

476—HANGING SCROLL

Dr. Staab

11<sup>00</sup>—Painted on silk, by Yuan Nam Tin, an artist of the beginning of the Tsing Dynasty. Called a central piece, because it is customary to place it in the center of the wall opposite the entrance to a Chinese parlor. It has the three symbols of Longevity (Cypress), Rank (Crane) and Wealth (Peonies) beautifully and gracefully executed.

Length, 7 feet; width, 26½ inches.

D. G. Simkhovitch

476A—HANGING SCROLL: AUTUMNAL RIVER SCENE

25<sup>00</sup>—Painted on silk by Hsieh Shi Chun, a Premier of the Ming Dynasty. A very old piece, beautifully executed depicting a river with a boat, and along its banks rocks and trees.

Length, 7 feet 2 inches; width, 25¼ inches.

Second Afternoon

477—MOUNTAINS AND RIVERS UNLIMITED

A. A. Lawrence

110<sup>00</sup> A series of twelve hanging scrolls on silk by the great master, Wan Ching Ming, a noted artist of the Ming Dynasty, who was inspired by the works of Kwok Hsi of the Tong Dynasty and Chiao Tze Ugong of the Sung Dynasty, whose specialty was snow scenes.

Length, 6 feet 2 inches; width, 24½ inches.

WAN CHING MING in his masterpieces often excelled his predecessors in the fidelity and polish of his art. This series of twelve scrolls are one continuous scene of a most picturesque and diversified section of the country, embracing mountains, valleys, streams, bridges, villages and their inhabitants, and picturing Chinese life and surroundings with the grace, exquisite color combination and taste of a true artist. Throughout the series one finds a harmonious scene from the mountain tops to the shores of the river, the whole being enhanced by beautiful trees, foliage and boats, and farms with their domestic animals, most happily introduced.
